IN APPRECIATION

Remembrance of things past at Maryland State College begins with the vital, living present, for who we are nationwide is symbolized by a man keeping alive a tradition that has traveled the length and breadth of the land.

A great metropolitan newspaper of our state hails him as "The Winningest Coach"; a governor praises the accomplished skill of players this man has coached to professional brilliance; the owner of one of the most outstanding professional football teams in the country says that the McCain-coached player always stands head and shoulders above the rank and file.

To the man who has brought national renown to our college; who has planted in the hearts of ten proud teams the will to fight hard, to win and lose with grace on their road to championships; who, amidst honors and plaudits and victories, has practiced the ideals of service, simplicity, and humility so faithfully that every student at Maryland State College is inspired to emulation, the students of Maryland State College dedicate THE HAWK, 1960:

VERNON E. "SKIP" MCCAIN

PAGE

In twelve years McCain's teams have sustained 83 wins, 12 losses, and 4 ties. He produced untied and undefeated teams in 1949, 1950, 1951, and 1955.

In 1954, Maryland State joined the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association; in 1955 McCain led his team to the championship. Since 1954 the Hawks have participated in two bowl games, both in Miami.

McCain brought two scintillating All-Americans to his coaching staff. Nay Taylor of Tennessee State and Earl Banks of Iowa (now Head Coach at Morgan State). He sent Vaughn to the Canadian Pros, Sample and Plunkert to the World Champion Colts, Brown to the Detroit Lions, and Stan Jones to the American Football League.

In his twelve years "Skip" has produced nine All-Americans — Sylvester Polk, Calvin Martitt, Walter Robinson, William Jordan, Leon Wilson, Sherman Plunkett, John Sample, Roger Brown and Vernon Vaughn.

We salute our "winningest coach."

THE PRESIDENT OF MARYLAND STATE COLLEGE:
DR. JOHN TAYLOR WILLIAMS

Seventy years of existence and ten years of phenomenal growth were celebrated by Maryland State College in 1957, the tenth year of the able, dynamic administration of Dr. Williams, who has seen us grow in numbers and facilities, his task widening with the expansion of the College. Scholastic emphases, athletic emphases, a growing national reputation, the need for further expansion: These are institutional topics our President ponders as he asks: "Who are we of Maryland State College?"

THE GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND:
THE HONORABLE J. MILLARD TAWES

Our College was honored by a visit from Maryland's First Citizen, Governor J. Millard Tawes, on December 5, 1959, the occasion being our First Annual Leadership Convocation. A notable gathering of Maryland citizens heard the Governor speak in tribute to our student leaders.

Foreword

Who are the men and women, students and teachers, of Maryland State College? What have we done? What do we cherish? What are our interests? How do we look to ourselves? What has been our history since the last time we recorded it in the pages of a year book?

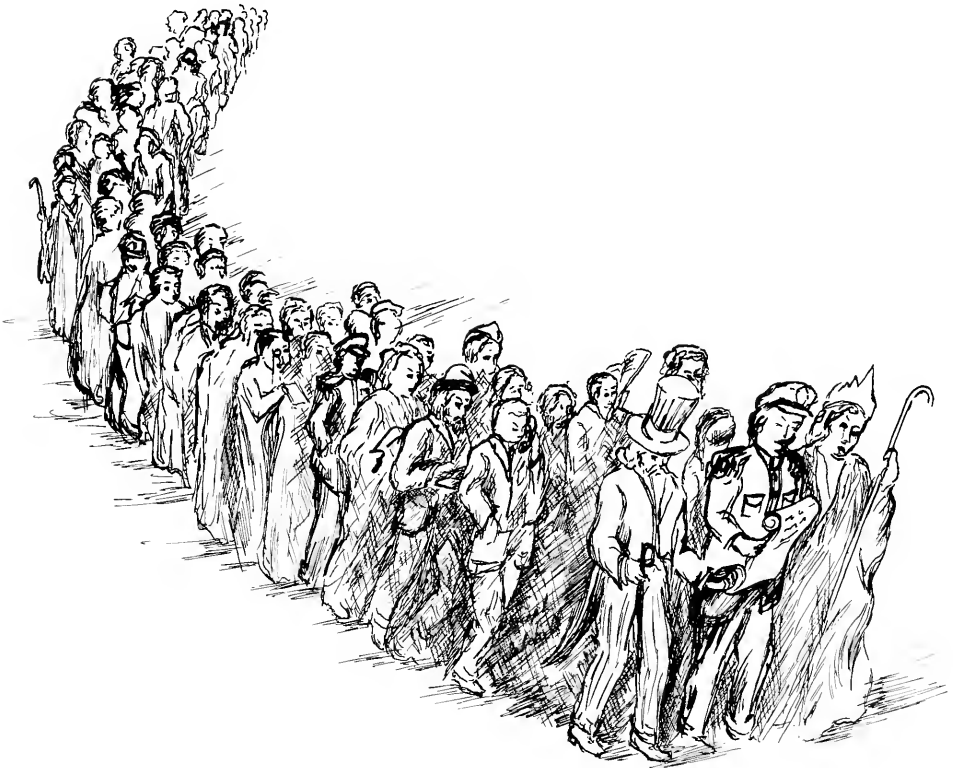

The HAWK staff invites you to learn through the media of picture and story what we have done this year. We are, as you will discover, a closely knit community of students and teachers, going about our daily tasks, studying, teaching, creating, working, worshipping, dreaming, relaxing, aspiring; in short, doing all those things that deepen into custom and tradition on every college campus in the land.

"History repeats itself," is a very old saying. What justification exists for presenting a history which is a repetition of a twice-told tale? The main reason for this record of our life, so the editors believe, is that while the setting may remain the same, the persons taking their places in the historical drama change and grow. It is for the individual member of each class, organization, and team that his particular moment of Maryland State College history should be preserved; he is a person; he has an identity. In the hope that this edition of THE HAWK shall speak personally to every member of the Maryland State College community, the editors present it to our family.

Dr. James D. Singletary

Dean of the College is Dr. James D. Singletary, scholarly disciple of the real, not the popularized John Dewey. Hard-working Dean Singletary has impressed his mark of identity upon faculty and students who share his enthusiasm for good work, high standards, and professional growth.

Miss Edith I. Gibbs

Dean Edith I. Gibbs, monarch of the co-ed country bound not by Murphy Hall but the breadth and width of our college life, helps women students find their identity by wise counsel. "Women's Day," "Candlelight Service," and other traditions and useful organizations taken for granted now had their origin and growth in Dean Gibbs' mind and heart.

Mr. Francis H. Harris

The Good Dean! How well the title fits our calm, courteous Dean Francis H. Harris. Student Council Carnival, Student Counselors, Y.M.C.A., movies, Pre-Design-for-Living Days—all originated and vitalized by our unassuming Dean of Men to make our lives fuller and happier.

Freshman Doings

On a hot day in September freshman athletes celebrated end of an orientation phase. Junior Charis Crosse leads them off.

The Freshman Show was a serious play about the legend of the Fourth Wise Man. Stagecrafters Hi Burton (l.) and Ted Richardson (r.) direct: (l. to r.): Patty Thomas, James Robertson, Chantio DeLaine, and Francis Tolson in scene.

Stagecrafters and members of Freshman Class costume Angel Faith Williams, Fourth (J. Robertson) and Third (Francis Tolson) Wise Men.

Angels Faith Williams, Leona Ross, and Juanita Moore in scene from Prologue.

WE ARE . . .

In addition to being administrators, teachers, and members of classes, individuals who express their individuality

IN SPORTS PREFERENCES

IN LEISURE-TIME ACTIVITIES

IN INTELLECTUAL PURSUITS

Some of us are fleet-footed and grow skilled in track activities; some endowed with physical strength, superb body co-ordination, and acute minds, play football to match intricate play with intricate play; some learn to do all that can be done with a baseball and a bat . . . Some like music and collect records and sing in the choir and play in the bands . . . Some join fraternities and sororities and find our identity in association with like-minded fraters and sorors . . . Some like poetry and ideas, and major in English . . . Some like the rigorous pursuit of scientific knowledge and major in biology, chemistry . . . Some are challenged to shape both ideal beauty and the artifacts of Western civilization, and major in art, building construction, business education . . .

The following pages show us at work, at play, telling who we are in our characteristic behavior.

A busy Student Council, equally busy Student Counselors' body, Men's Senate, and Women's Council have integrated our corporate living this year under the guidance of Dean Gibbs and Dean Harris. Items to note as the year went by were the new spacious look of a well furnished Student Council office; the quiet, confident leadership of L. Parker; the very popular choice by women students of B. Jenkins, Women's Council President, as Woman of the Year; an enthusiastic, well supported Homecoming celebration; the neater look of dormitory rooms; the serious consideration of ways to improve use of leisure and maximum use of present recreation facilities; the growing effectiveness of the Counselor-Freshman Counselor relationship. (A department head called Dean Harris to tell him that a freshman's counselor had dropped in to spend five minutes talking about one of "his" freshmen, left an hour later with outlines, notes, and other helps to improve the performance of the counselee in a difficult course!) THE HAWK salutes student government for a year's work well done.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL: Bernice Jenkins, President, Dean Edith Gibbs, Adviser.

STUDENT COUNSELORS: LeVon Parker, President; Dean F. H. Harris, Adviser.

THE YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION Bernice Jenkins, President; Dean Edith I. Gibbs, Adviser.

THE NEWMAN CLUB Donald Wade, President; Mrs. Elaine Newsome, Adviser.

Four organizations, the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., the Newman Club, and the Wesley Foundation, identify students of Maryland State College as men and women seeking the good life and its values through group study and worship and service to others. Newly organized Wesleyans plan an extensive program for 1960; highlights for the other groups were: the Y.M.'s Week of Orientation for the Design-for-Living Week, our indispensable weekly moving pictures, a reception for new students; the Y.W.'s Pre-Lenten Week of Worship meetings; the Newman Club's distribution of food baskets to needy families.

The Wesley Foundation

THE WESLEY FOUNDATION Charis Crosse, President; Reverend Edwin Ellis, Director.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION Godfrey Mills, President; Dean F. H. Harris, Adviser.

THE COLLEGE CHOIR Mrs. C. J. Michaels, Director.

THE STAGCRAFTERS John Harris, President, Mrs. Elaine Newsome, Director.

Best loved among student organizations that attract members from every phase of college life are the College Choir, for the song-struck, and Stagcrafters, for the stage-struck. The Choir has sung this year for the Governor's visit, for the Lions Club of Salisbury, for the Design-for-Living Week, and other special occasions. Stagcrafters have presented the Freshman Players as well as their veterans in well-received offerings.

The Alpha Kappa Mu Interest Group, composed of high-ranking students whose scholarship standings merit their admission into an honor society, this year conducted a tutoring service for the general welfare. The Interest Group has been a real service to a growing number of students who drop into Trigg 127 Tuesday evenings for sympathetic help with mathematics, chemistry, English, and biology (the leading trouble makers).

THE ALPHA KAPPA MU INTEREST GROUP Charis Crosse, President; Miss Freddie Hill, Adviser.

THE G. E. HAYES STUDENT LOAN FUND COMMITTEE L. to R.: Adviser V. W. Stone, T. Kilgore, Wiggins, J. Tolson, Bowen, Crosse.

THE VETERANS CLUB Norman Poole, President.

Since its highly successful beginning as a five-figured loan fund under the sure guidance of President Williams, the G. E. C. Hayes Loan Fund has operated efficiently and humanely to the benefit of many students who, without its helping hand, would have faltered and perhaps have failed to complete their year's work. Staffed entirely by students, the Committee, with Adviser V. W. Stone, continues to render an invaluable service.

Also in areas of organizations whose members have had the ideal of service is our Veterans Club; men and women who answered their country's call to arms, served it faithfully, and now take up their own educational pursuits.

"A successful year" is the verdict of F. T. A. President Eugene James. Outstanding in year's events was presentation of Mrs. Aretha McKinley, Chairman of the American Council on Human Rights, with a faculty-student panel, to discuss "The College Student's Responsibility for Political and Economic Freedom." Chapter of Future Teachers of America also presented a public lecture by Miss Freddie Hill of the Department of Physical Education on her summer in Europe. In panel picture above, l. to r., C. Crosse, English Major; Y. Qualls, Head, English; F. Robinson, History Major; Mrs. McKinley; Eugene James, F. T. A. President; K. Cottman, School Supervisor, Somerset County; B. Jenkins, President, Women's Council.

Highlight of the year for N. F. A. was the November weekend which found the Aggies hosts to a statewide leadership conference for high school chapters. Second National Vice President Clarence Turner

STUDENT N. E. A. F. T. A. Eugene James, President; Dean James D. Singletary, Adviser.

(also State President in Maryland) addressed open meetings; workshop sessions dealt with better reporting, stock judging, effectiveness of local leadership and programs, and the like.

The Angel Flight, an organization of co-eds designed to aid and support the Air Force ROTC in whatever ways are found practicable and desirable, completed its second year this spring. The drill phase of activities was presented over WBOC Television Station in Salisbury during year. Girls took part in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington last year, will do so again this spring.

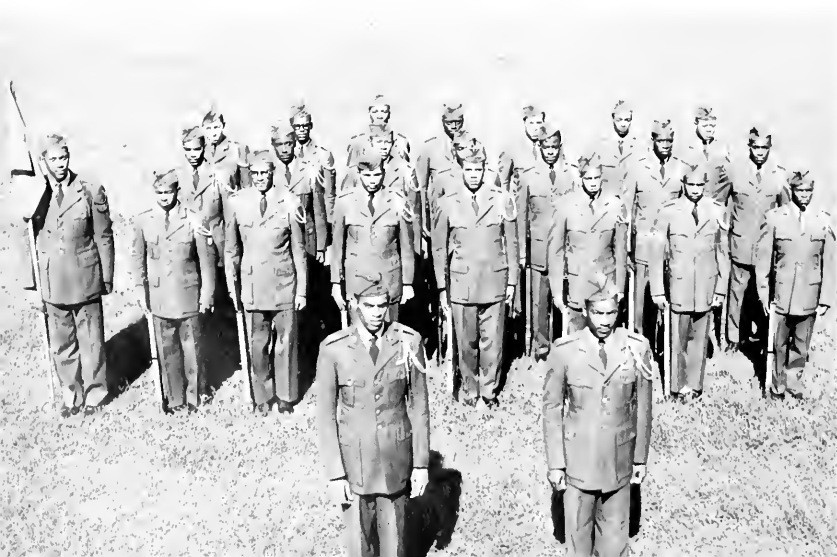

THE ANGEL FLIGHT, Mary Charms Captain; William Sollers, Commander.

English has grown as a major in past three years; there is now an enthusiastic group which gathers frequently to discuss significant books and professional problems facing the future English teacher.

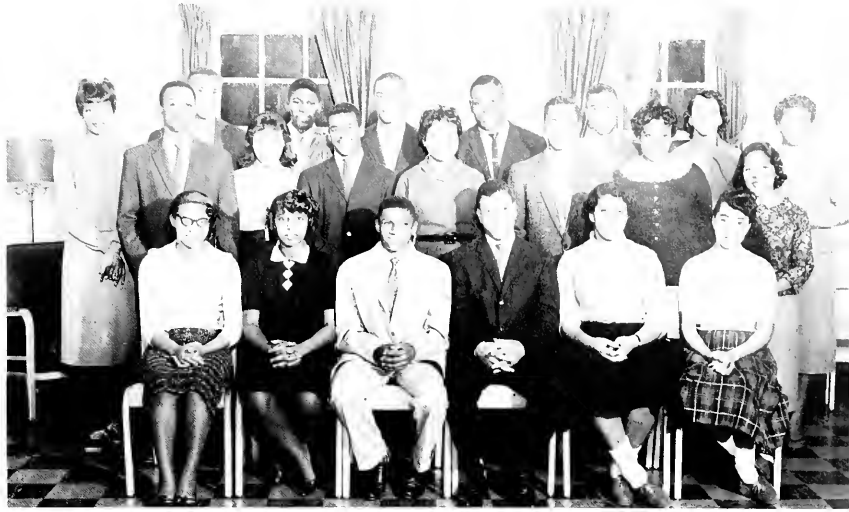

ENGLISH MAJORS, Dr. M. H. Levine, Adviser.

DRILL TEAM, Wayne Reed,
Drill Master

Under Drill Master Wayne Reed, the Drill Team has performed for the student body, at the Dover Air Force Base, at the University, and during half-time activities at football games.

Business Club activities centered this year around anticipated professional problems growing from course study and business publications.

THE BUSINESS CLUB Edward Boyer, President; Miss Virginia Jones, Adviser.

THE LEDGER STAFF Louis Pritchett, Editor; Dr. V. W. Stone, Adviser.

Continuing to grow in student and faculty favor is "The Ledger," our only student contribution to the Fourth Estate. "Ledger" has become regular reading matter for the entire campus family, and each issue is awaited eagerly by a host of readers.

"Home Ec" has had a good year, highlighted by the fall tea for new majors and the sparkling fashion show with its unusual and original appeal of male models demonstrating the late and appropriate in attire for Joe College. Giving the Lois Towles Gracious Living School a helping hand in modeling, pressing, and fitting added to a sense of usefulness as did costuming the Freshman Players for their Christmas performance.

THE HOME ECONOMICS CLUB Monya Cephas, President; Dr. Cecelia E. Humphrey, Adviser.

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB Joe Robinson, President; Miss Freddie Hill, Adviser.

THE "M" CLUB Calvert Davidson, President; Coach Earl Banks, Adviser.

Tree By Library

The Tree Speaks:

Here in this tranquil, perfect air
A hundred years from now,
Youth still will walk, my limbs still bear
Beauty in every bough.

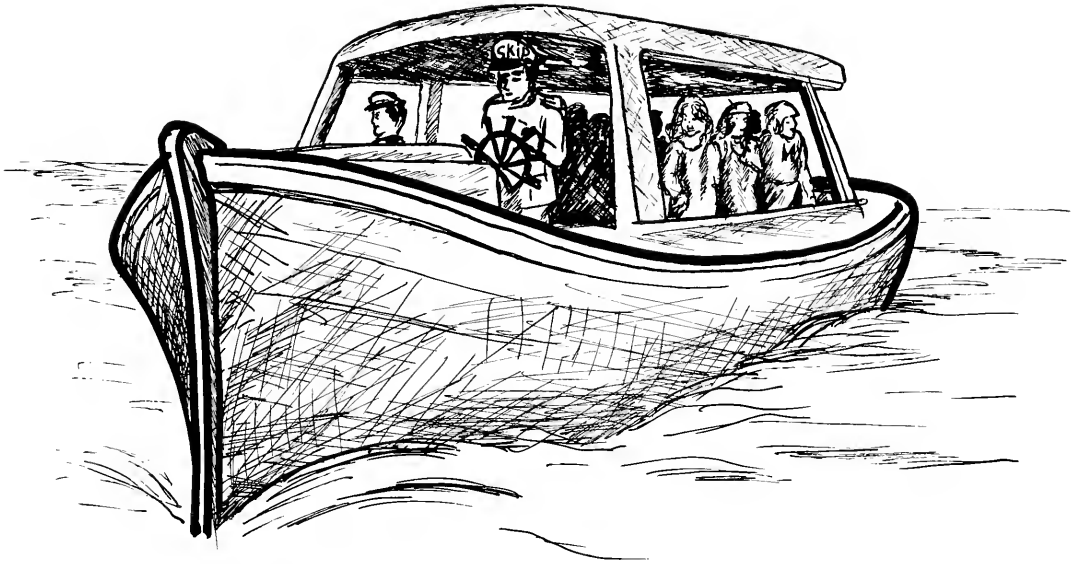

I think that they who walk here then
Will strive as you, to know the art
Of stopping tears of anguish when
The sights of beauty oppress the heart.

They will weep then as you do now
To look up to me at high noon.
Blood from their young hearts will flow
That they behold me bathed in moon.

Full of tremble, stark or still,
The heart of beauty does not die,
Not knowing this, all weep afill
And never yet know why.

Until in time know as I now
Who seek themselves until the end
Find beauty here keeps tearless how
Time, age, and custom cannot rend.

Wilbur Ross, Track Coach

Upon his arrival last September as track coach, Wilbur Ross began making a lot of noise about his excellent prospects. Everyone thought it was impossible for him to live up to such a rosy picture. But after the meet at the All-Eastern Indoor Event, skeptics suddenly found that Ross and his speedy Hawks meant business. Since then they have been gradually elbowing their way into track recognition.

Air Force

A decade ago, MSC campus took on a new look with the incorporation of the AFROTC program into the general curriculum. Since then Corps cadets have engaged in many activities in the local area while participating in the two-fold program objectives: to prepare cadets for future service as officers in the Air Force and to build citizens.

Developments and changes have been aimed at improving overall program. Cadet staff personnel have been rotated regularly, new concepts introduced, and improved methods of instruction incorporated.

AFROTC staff consists of Associate Professor of Air Science Major Louis W. Cracken, Assistant Professor of Air Science Captain Bradley R. Foster, and two administrative non-commissioned officers, Staff Sergeants Donald E. Blevins and Frederick J. Smith.

Cadets have many extra-curricular activities to enhance their development. Membership in the AF-ROTC Band, the Arnold Air Society, the Cadet Drill Team, the Cadet Glee Club, and opportunity to go on orientation flights in aircraft are just some activities cadets can participate in and enjoy.

The Angel Flight, believed to be the largest of its kind in the U.S., has contributed to the Corps by promoting interest in it, aiding in social activities, serving as hostesses, and marching as a separate unit or jointly with the Cadet Drill Team.

Stellar attraction of the year is Military Day, with Military Ball ceremonies, consisting of drill and band contests, displays, awards, and visiting dignitaries, followed by a formal Cadet Ball—all helping to make this day a momentous occasion.

We are . . .

At Home In 1959

Homecoming might well begin with a sudden glimpse of a favorite campus spot—the moon-drenched tree under which a fellow first discovered the beauty of that special girl's face. It might begin with the remembered musical ting of a chain beating against the flag pole. It often begins—that sense of being home again—with familiar sights and sounds: late fall leaves making vivid splashes against the dull gray of a dusty football field, the pink and green, black and gold and purple of floats, shouts of welcome, football cleats hitting the pavement hard, the band tuning up, the swish of a majorette's brief skirt, the color and rhythm of the parade. However it begins, Homecoming is always gay, exciting, colorful, nostalgic . . .

We are surely at home when. . .

OUR QUEEN IS CROWNED

Mr. John McDowell, Alumnus, Principal, Worcester High School, Snow Hill, Maryland, crowns Andrades Alexander as Miss Maryland State.

And her reign begins . . .

Miss Maryland State, 1959-60

Andrades Alexander

Beauty, brains, sparkling personality, poise, style—it seems that the gods denied their fortunate daughter no gift in their power when they created her and then sent her from her native Detroit to Maryland, where she has won a host of friends in her four years at MSC. A Sociology major, "Kitty" is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the Stagecrafters, the History Club, the YWCA, the Angel Flight, and the Women's Council.

Woman Of The Year 1959-60

Coveted honor, "Woman of the Year," went in 1959 to a shoo-in: popular, scholarly, versatile Bernice Jenkins, elected by a large vote of women students.

President of the Women's Council, Bernice is also President of the YWCA, a Student Counselor; is member of Delta Sigma Theta and the Business Club. A Business Ed. major, she has been on honor roll since her freshman year.

On Women's Day, Miss Emily Gibbs, Women's Work Director of the U. S. Presbyterian Board of Education, addressed students; Dean Edith Gibbs presented award to Miss Jenkins for achievements in scholarship, culture, leadership, and social advancement. Later, Dean Gibbs, Miss Jenkins, and Miss Gibbs met well wishers at Murphy Hall reception.

School of Gracious Living-School of The Dance

The glowing sophistication of the Paris-trained model, the enthusiastic participation of men and women students in an all-college fashion show, the tender grace of dancing tots: these are the memories we share of the Lois Towles School of Gracious Living and the Judimar School of the Dance. Both are cherished additions to our way of life, both contributing to poise and confidence through stress on usage, grooming, carriage, body co-ordination.

Below Miss Towles models her marvelous creation of black fur which she calls "Jet." Model Ence Bowins is assisted—very graciously—to descend stairs by Male Models David Walston and Francis Wade. Other pictures show small ballerinas posing in same flower-like grace as their older sisters.

The Governor And The Student Leaders

December 4, 1959, was the day President Williams set aside to honor students who have distinguished themselves as campus leaders. To emphasize the importance he attached to our first Leadership Convocation, President Williams invited Maryland's First Citizen, the Honorable J. Millard Tawes, Governor, to address an assemblage of the honored leaders, prominent Marylanders from government, business, the professions, and other fields of accomplishment, parents and patrons of the College.

Briefly but eloquently, Governor Tawes, a man of enormous charm, warm friendliness and dignity, an obvious leader of men, spoke about the path one takes to leadership, of its responsibilities and privileges, of the sacrificial role of parents who make leadership convocations possible. Then Student Council President Levon Parker presented the Governor a plaque from the student body. The Governor lunched with the College family, visited Art Gallery with President Williams, posed for photograph with student leaders.

In 1959 they brought us their messages.

As The Hawk Flies Nestward. . .

Preparing the 1960 HAWK was an exciting task made enjoyable by congenial fellowship of a co-operative staff that occasionally worked all night, wheeled across Bay Bridge rushing copy to publisher while worrying about exams and reports, sighed for office space, longed to finish job at right time—early enough for everyone to receive book before term ended but late enough to avoid vociferous criticism of our brain child.

For relief from harassing problems, HAWK spread his wings one day, everybody perched on, and ye editors flew to Baltimore with some interesting photographic results. We missed Business Manager Yares sorely, wish him a speedy recovery. Also unavailable for the photographer were Associate Editor Gould, Art Editor Satchell, Photographers Wickes and Wiggins. We now impress ourselves for posterity as follows:

Editor Cal Davidson, Business Manager Sammy Qualls try to persuade Hawk that right time to sink his talons into this particular situation is football season.

Business Manager Qualls concludes a delectable bit of business: Leasing Hawk (held by Cal) to Miss Morgan State, Alberta Thomas. Dare she keep Hawk in dorm?

Hawk apologizes to Mildred Kelly, '62, Carson Brittingham, '63, who belong elsewhere in book

Sammy calculates receipts on Hawk lease.

Heap Big Editor-in-Chief does some chief editing.

Lay-Out Editor Burton ponders whether to lay out or lay down his heavy load.

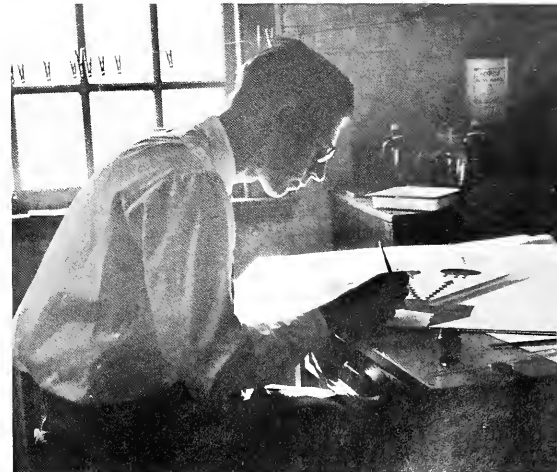

Features Editor Loretta Smith searching for good features finds them in an obvious place.

Here is Staff Correspondent Charis Crosse doing some important corresponding.

You name it, he has it: Our always prepared Sports Editor Frank Muse.

Thanks, Mr. Wiles!

Commencement, 1959

The Editors close the pages of THE HAWK with a beginning rather than an ending, a salutatory rather than a valedictory, for who we are is most clearly shown by what we become and do in the world after we leave the sheltering arms of our Alma Mater.

Procession winds to steps of Kiah Hall

President Williams, Senator Harry T. Phoebus, Commencement Speaker Dr. Martin Luther King
